Since 1980, PDI Global has had the pleasure of working with wonderful professional services firms. It has consistently been our goal to provide high-quality products and responsive service motivated by our mission of “doing what it takes to help our clients get ahead.”

As we contemplated our plan for the future, we decided that, to fully maximize each of our lines of business, we needed to better focus our efforts. Therefore, we are pleased to announce the next step in our evolution.

Today PDI Global’s Content & Publications division becomes part of the Tax & Accounting business of Thomson Reuters. This acquisition will put greater resources behind all of the company’s content programs, which will eventually offer you more product choices and options.

We are very confident in Thomson Reuters' commitment to continuing to deliver the quality and service you've come to expect from PDI Global. There will be no change in existing PDI Global content program agreements, and our clients will continue to get the same outstanding service they've come to expect from the company. PDI Global’s name will remain the same for now and all associates working in this part of the business will remain with the company. Linda Kranz, PDI Global’s current COO, will assume leadership of the company, continuing to manage the day-to-day operations of the business, as she has for the last six years.

Management consulting, marketing consulting and executive search services will now be provided through Koltin Consulting Group, led by Allan D. Koltin, PDI Global’s former CEO. The associates that have been providing these services as part of PDI Global for the last several years will now be part of that new company. Koltin Consulting Group and PDI Global will continue to work closely together to provide you with a full array of practice management and business development solutions.

Everyone at PDI Global, Thomson Reuters and Koltin Consulting Group look forward to continuing to work with outstanding professional services firms like yours.
